

Rooted in Sweetness

Teodora Calingacion found a sweet venture in her Ube Halaya business.

Desserts are deeply ingrained in Filipino culture, and no matter where you travel in the Philippines, you will always find something sweet to try. In San Pablo City, Laguna, one local delicacy stands out: Ube Halaya - a Filipino dessert made from boiled and mashed purple yam.

Among the skilled artisans making this popular treat is Teodora Calingacion, a 57-year-old entrepreneur with a story of resilience and determination. She is the fourth of six siblings. Teodora may have only completed high school, but that does not limit her dream of having a good life.

At 18, she began selling kakanin in Calamba City as a vendor. A year later, she returned home, married in 1987, and with her husband - a security guard - worked hard to support their children's education.

In 2016, with her husband's retirement, the couple decided to invest their full energy into making and selling ube halaya. Her husband, who had prior experience in Ube Halaya production, uses his learnings as a foundation for their growing business. Confident that Filipinos' love for sweets would drive demand, Teodora rented a small roadside space to sell their product. Over the past eight years, they have built a loyal following.

To ensure freshness, all their Ube Halaya is made to order. During festive seasons like Christmas and New Year, their products became especially popular, helping to balance out the quieter months.

Teodora has also received support from CARD Bank, a microfinance-oriented rural bank, which has helped her grow her business. A client since 2003, she now uses a PHP 80,000 loan exclusively for her ube halaya production.

"Through the years, I have seen how CARD has continuously improved their products and services, and I am satisfied," she said.

In addition to her classic ube halaya, she also sells leche flan and ube lecheflan that reach neighboring towns and even overseas.

Looking ahead, Teodora intends to expand her market while maintaining the quality of her products.

Bukas, para sa labat.

Strengthening Fire Prevention: A Shared Responsibility

Every year, March is observed as Fire Prevention Month in the Philippines—a timely reminder of the devastating impact of fires and the urgent need for proactive measures to prevent them.

The Bureau of Fire Protection (BFP) plays a crucial role in this effort, conducting fire drills, inspections, and educational campaigns to instill fire safety habits among citizens.

However, fire prevention is not the sole responsibility of authorities—it is a shared duty that requires vigilance and cooperation from every household and business.

Fires can strike at any moment, leaving behind destruction, injuries, and even loss of life. In many cases, these tragedies stem from preventable causes such as faulty electrical wiring, unattended stoves, and improper handling of flammable materials.

Local governments and private organizations must also contribute by ensuring complimenting preventive measures to minimize risks. ance with fire safety regulations, investing in modern firefighting equipment, and supporting fire brigades. Schools and workplaces should integrate fire safety training into their programs, equipping individuals with the knowledge and skills to respond effectively in emergencies.

Ultimately, Fire Prevention Month is more than just a yearly observance—it is a reminder that preparedness and responsibility save lives. By fostering a culture of fire safety, we can protect our homes, businesses, and communities from the devastating effects of fire. The time to act is now, and it starts with each of us.

TRECE MARTIRES CITY, Cavite – Dengue cases in Cavite province have surged by 409 percent in 2025, prompting all 23 localities in the province to go on high alert, according to the Provincial Epidemiology and Surveillance Unit (PESU).

From Jan. 1 to Feb. 22, PESU recorded 3,379 dengue cases at General Emilio Aguinaldo Memorial Hospital in Barangay Luciano -- a sharp increase from the 664 cases reported during the same period in 2024, according to Dr. Nelson Soriano, Cavite Provincial Health Officer.

Ten localities reported over 100 cases each, with Imus leading at 501 cases, followed by Bacoor (456), Dasmariñas (416), General Trias (394), Tanza (335), Cavite City (223), Naic (219), Rosario (141), Kawit (124), and Carmona City (112). Of the total cases, 33 were severe, 2,126 (63%) showed warning signs, and 1,220 (38%) had no warning signs. Eight fatalities were recorded, with three from Trece Martires City, two from General Mariano Alvarez, and one each from Silang, Carmona, and Bacoor. Imus Mayor Alex Advincula said the Imus City Health Office and City Environment Office are conducting misting, fogging, and cleanup drives in communities to combat the outbreak. "I remind every barangay to maintain cleanliness. We've distributed lotions to schools and are working together to reduce dengue cases,"

Advincula said. Other localities, including General Trias, have also intensified efforts to address the outbreak. The Department of Health reported a decrease in dengue cases at 14,460 from Jan. 26 to Feb. 8. The figure is 7 percent lower compared to the 15,550 cases recorded from Jan. 15 to Jan. 25. Still, the number is 64 percent higher than during the same period in 2024. Overall, there have been 52,008 reported cases this year as of Feb. 22. The three regions with the highest number of cases are Calabarzon, where Cavite belongs, with 10,759; National Capital Region with 9,302; and Central Luzon with 8,652. (PNA)

MARINE LITTER. The EcoWaste Coalition releases the results of its 2024 Marine Litter Monitoring Survey Report at a press conference in Quezon City on Wednesday (Jan. 15, 2025), with Environmental Management Specialist Bhona May Onate (left) of the Department of Environment and Natural Resources-Environmental Management Bureau and De La Salle University-Dasmariñas Assistant Vice Chancellor for Research Dr. Johnny Ching. The report showed hard and film plastics made up 91 percent of collected wastes in Manila Bay, although there was also a 36-percent decrease in the volume of marine litter and a 42-percent reduction in the total weight of collected wastes from 2023 to 2024 in 10 project sites in Cavite and Bataan provinces and Metro Manila cities Parañaque and Navotas. MANILA - Hard and film plastics represent 91 percent of the collected wastes in Manila Bay, an environmental group said Wednesday. In a press conference, the EcoWaste Coalition, together with De La Salle University - Dasmariñas, shared the findings of its 2024 Marine Litter Monitoring Survey Report, which showed a 36 percent decrease in the volume of marine litter and a 42 percent reduction in the total weight of collected wastes from 2023 to 2024 in its 10 project sites. These include Silangan, Rosario; Timalan, Naic; Sahud Ulan, Tanza; Capipisa, Tanza; and Julugan, Tanza in Cavite. In the National Capital Region, the project sites include San Dionisio, Paranaque; and Tanza, Navotas. Meanwhile, the project sites in Bataan are Cab-caben, Mariveles; Ag-wawan Beach, Barangay Simsiman, Mariveles; and Bantan, Orion. Despite the decline in marine debris, seasonal data further indicated a 16 percent increase in litter counts during the wet months compared to the dry season. "These findings demonstrate the progress we've made, but they also highlight the urgent need for stricter waste management practices," EcoWaste Coalition's Enhancement of Marine Litter Management (EMLM) Project Officer Wes Lipana said. "We have made significant strides in reducing litter, but the continuing dominance of plastics in our waste indicates the need for collective action - both from government bodies and the public." The group presented key actions to address

Enchanted Kingdom spreads the magic of love with the Forever Enchanted Love Stories, a Valentine's celebration

Enchanted Kingdom, the first and only world-class theme park in the Philippines, celebrates the season of love with the Forever Enchanted Love Stories, magical Valentine's celebration this February. As part of EK's 30th anniversary festivities this 2025, guests with their loved ones can immerse into the enchanting shows, fun activities and treat around the Park made with love by Eldar the Wizard.

Last February 15, several lucky Park guests were given the chance to share their own Forever Enchanted Love Stories at the Bandstand during the annual Hug-A-Palooza event. Eldar and Princess Victoria also joined the crowd for the event's highlight — the hugging tradition.

After the Hug-A-Palooza, the featured guests received special giveaways and were led to an intimate Valentine's dinner treat at EK's very own restaurants Amazon Grill and LaunchTime. Further spreading the Valentine vibe, violinist Dominique Casacop serenaded everyone at the Victoria Park last February 21 and 22. Sparkle GMA Artist Center stars Sofia Pablo and Allen Ansay also spread more kilig at the Park on their grand fans day last February 23 at the Bandstand. With the Forever Enchanted Photowall, park goers can capture their magical memories with their loved ones at this colorful installation located near the Rialto 4D.

At nighttime, scroll along the streets of the Brooklyn Place and fall in love with the vibrant display in sync with classic romantic ballads at the Forever Enchanted Love Symphony during Fridays to Sundays.
